Brief activity overview/description	It starts with a story about a friend I know who was walking through the forest and saw a door at the base of a cedar tree. The door did not open, so the friend sits behind a rock to spy on the door. It opens gnomes, fairies and woodland creatures come out. The friend is seen and dust is sprinkled on her by a fairy so that she shrinks and goes into the door and has amazing adventures. The woodland creatures tell her never to tell anyone where the door is located. She later wakes up behind the rock and the door is still there! Excitedly she goes to find me to tell me all about her adventures. Do you want to go look for some gnome and fairy doors with me? What kind of trees might be best for them? Where are the best places for these trees? Let's go!
